

Meet the locals

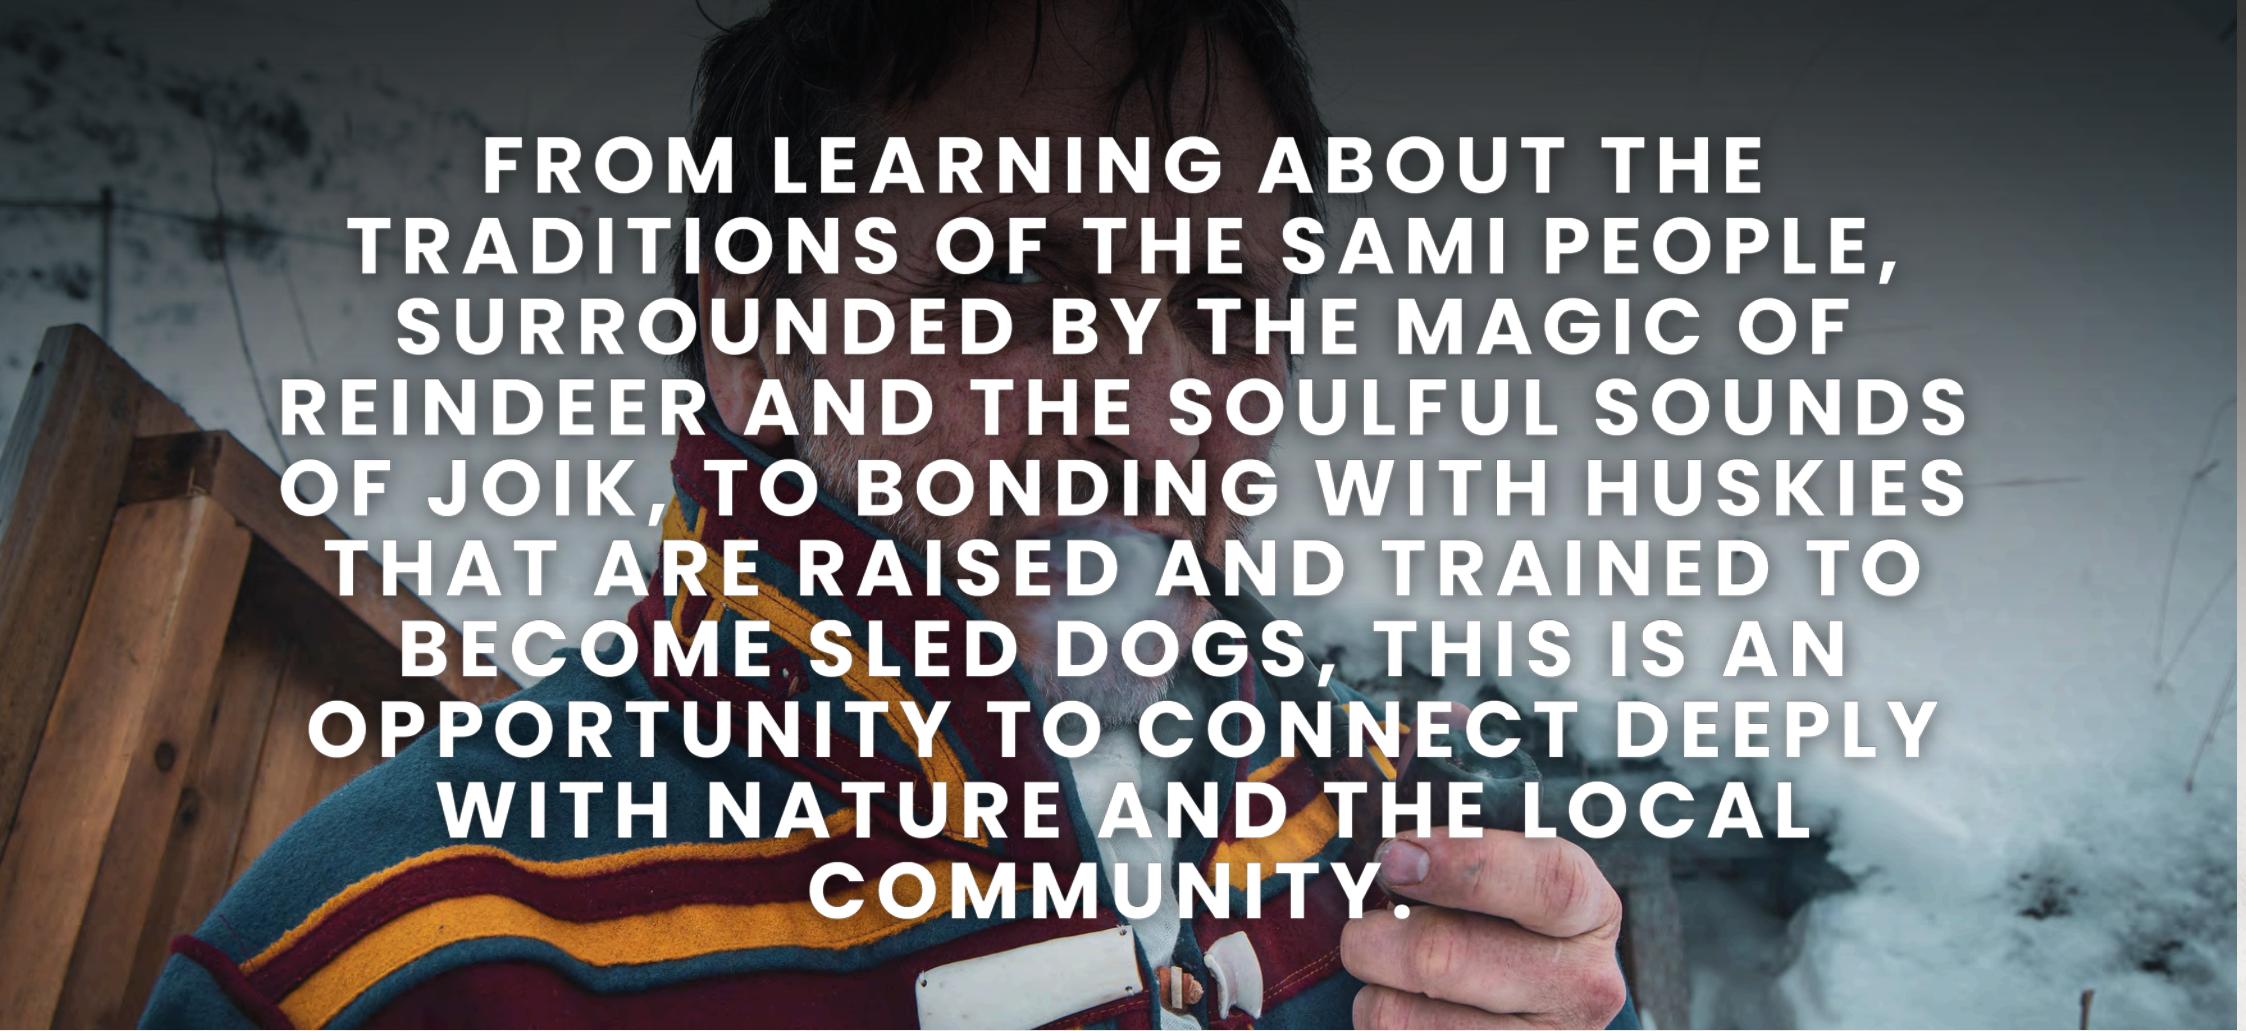

IMMERSE YOURSELF IN THE CULTURAL RICHNESS AND EVERYDAY LIFE OF FINNMARK

EXPERIENCE UNIQUE INTERACTIONS WITH THE PEOPLE AND ANIMALS THAT SHAPE THIS NORTHERN REGION

GO NORTH

FROM LEARNING ABOUT THE TRADITIONS OF THE SAMI PEOPLE, SURROUNDED BY THE MAGIC OF REINDEER AND THE SOULFUL SOUNDS OF JOIK, TO BONDING WITH HUSKIES THAT ARE RAISED AND TRAINED TO BECOME SLED DOGS, THIS IS AN OPPORTUNITY TO CONNECT DEEPLY WITH NATURE AND THE LOCAL COMMUNITY.

Whether it's spending time on a farm crafting treasures from natural materials or meeting the hardy Greenlandic dogs that play such a vital role in the Arctic, each moment promises an authentic glimpse into life in this extraordinary part of the world.

And the people of Finnmark is all about that meeting over the cup of coffee, why not join in, whether it is on the local store, around the fire in the mountain or the lavvo, or in their always so open homes

You might think that living this far off grid, makes people less social, but here time has not caught up to the calendar planning, here one still visits the neighbor without planning it weeks ahead.

GO NORTH

Nature and the animals is also a big part of everyday life and the locals' interactions, learning about this special bond is worth a visit.

Take part in these experiences and leave with stories to cherish, all while surrounded by the stunning landscapes that make Finnmark so unforgettable.

Dogsledding

THE HUSKY IS BORN TO PULL A SLEDGE, AND THEY THRIVE IN THEIR ELEMENT. WE SEE IT ALL FROM THEY ARE PUPPIES, EAGER TO PULL AND WORK IN A TEAM.

VISITORS ARE GREETED BY THE EXCITED HOWLS OF THE HUSKIES AS THE SLEDS ARE PREPARED FOR THE JOURNEY AHEAD.

GONORTH

THE EXPERIENCE INVOLVES MEETING THE ENTIRE PACK, INCLUDING PUPPIES AND YOUNG DOGS WHO ARE BEING TRAINED FOR THEIR FUTURE IN MUSHING.

Upon arrival, guests receive a thorough introduction to safety and driving techniques. They might get the opportunity to harness their own dog team with guidance and assistance. The journey is a cooperative effort, with two guests per sled, taking turns as drivers. The pace and route are tailored to the snow and weather conditions, ensuring a safe and enjoyable experience for everyone.

For those curious but hesitant to dive into a full mushing adventure, there are shorter trips available. These shorter excursions offer a taste of the dog sledding experience, perfect for beginners who may want to try longer trips in the future.

Whether you're driving the sled yourself or enjoying the ride as a passenger, dog sledding through the Arctic wilderness is a unique and unforgettable experience. Combining the trip with northern lights hunting on a clear winter night adds another layer of magic. Even in light rain, the adventure takes on a whole new dimension that could stay with you forever.

GO NORTH

Even in “warmer” temperatures without snow, the adventure continues with dog sledding on wheels. The huskies are just as eager, pulling specially designed carts that allow you to experience the thrill of mushing through the Arctic landscape. It's a unique way to connect with the dogs and explore the wilderness, regardless of the season.

Historical Guiding Finnmark

IF WE DON'T LEARN FROM OUR HISTORY, WE RISK REPEATING THE SAME MISTAKES. FINNMARK HOLDS A UNIQUE AND RICH HISTORY, DISTINCT BOTH IN A NORWEGIAN AND GLOBAL CONTEXT.

GO NORTH

ARCHAEOLOGICAL EVIDENCE SHOWS HUMAN SETTLEMENT IN THE REGION DATING BACK 10,000 TO 11,000 YEARS, SUCH AS AT MELKØYA AND SLETTNES. FROM ITS EARLIEST DAYS, FINNMARK'S PEOPLE DIFFERED FROM THOSE FURTHER SOUTH IN NORWAY. IN MORE RECENT HISTORY, WORLD WAR II HAD A PROFOUND AND UNIQUE IMPACT ON FINNMARK

The scorched-earth retreat by German forces left the region devastated, with entire communities displaced and infrastructure destroyed.

At Hammerfest's Gjenreisningsmuseet, visitors can explore the post-World War II reconstruction through immersive exhibits and artifacts, showcasing the resilience and determination of those who rebuilt a region from the ground up. One notable exhibit includes the story of the Struve Geodetic Arc, a UNESCO World Heritage site that played a vital role in 19th-century mapping efforts, emphasizing global heritage preservation.

At the open-air museum at Fuglenesodden, visitors can step into the life of a 1940s fisher-farmer family inside an authentic brakkehus (barrack house) from 1947, complete with period furnishings and tools. The site offers a glimpse into the resourcefulness and traditions of coastal Finnmark.

GO NORTH

For those curious about Arctic heritage, the Royal and Ancient Polar Bear Society offers insights into Hammerfest's role as a historical Arctic trading hub, illustrated through its extensive artifacts and displays.

Finnmark's history also reflects the diversity of its peoples. The Sami and Kven communities have long shaped the region's culture. The Kvens, Finnish-Norwegian settlers, are renowned for their expertise in blacksmithing, carpentry, and coastal fishing. While their contributions enriched local life, the region's history also includes complex interactions between different groups, such as disputes over grazing rights, reflecting the challenges of Arctic life and its interconnected communities.

GO NORTH

THE FORGOTTEN PEOPLE: HISTORY, HERITAGE, AND STORIES FROM THE KVEN CULTURE

Delve into the unique world of the Kven, or Norwegian-Finnish people, who have inhabited the North Calotte for centuries, shaping a way of life that harmonizes coastal and inland traditions of fishing, hunting, and farming.

Recognized in historical records from the 16th century, Kven communities were praised by 18th-century officials as skilled, hardworking farmers and artisans who introduced essential crafts to the north.

A visit with a museum tour and lecture reveal the deep connections these communities share with the Arctic landscape. You will discover the seasonal journeys to the coast, the rich exchanges of stories about Ruija, and the historical disputes over grazing rights that have inspired local folklore. The experience also touches on the moving side of Kven heritage—stories of children sent to boarding schools far from home, where seeing family even once a year was a rare gift.

MEMBERSHIP CLUB IN THE WORLD

GO NORTH

DID YOU KNOW THAT THE THE ROYAL AND ANCIENT POLAR BEAR SOCIETY IS THE WORLD'S SECOND LARGEST CLUB, IN TERMS OF NUMBER OF MEMBERS? AT THIS MOMENT, THE CLUB HAS MORE THAN 282,000 REGISTERED MEMBERS (JANUARY 2024)!

The Isbjørnklubben, or the Royal and Ancient Polar Bear Society, is a unique attraction. Established in 1963, this society celebrates the history and culture of Arctic nature and the people living in this remote area. Visitors to Hammerfest can join the club by paying a one-time fee, which grants them lifelong membership.

New members receive a special package that includes a silver polar bear pin, a diploma signed by the mayor, a membership card, and a sticker, and a standing invite to the yearly meeting in the Polar Bear Society, every year third weekend in January.

The society's museum showcases a variety of artifacts, including taxidermy mounts, historical hunting and travel equipment, and a gallery of photographs and writings that depict Hammerfest's rich past as a significant trading port and meeting point for Arctic travelers.
